West Arkansas Toll Road Threat to Highways' Finance

In an editorial Jan. 22 the Arkansas Democrat pointed out that the new bill authorizing a toll highway down the western edge of Arkansas, which has passed the Senate, differs from an enactment in 1967 in that the new measure could conceivably damage the financial support of all the state's highways.

Former Rep. Talbot Field, Jr., forwarded me a copy of the Democrat article in case I had missed seeing it—and I had, indeed, missed it.

What the Democrat points out is that the old bill, Act 43 of 1967, required, (1) an engineering study to determine whether a toll road would be self-sustaining and, (2) the project must be financed entirely by private investment. The Democrat's editorial spells this out in a single paragraph:

"The turnpike project and its indebtedness incurred therefor will be entirely self-liquidating through the revenues derived from the operation of the turnpike project."

But the current bill, SB 55 of 1971, puts potential State Highway Department funds behind the toll road.

The Democrat quotes S.B. 55 of 1967 as follows:

"The construction of a turnback project can be financed from the proceeds of revenue bonds and other available funds."

"The other available funds," in case the toll revenue falls short, continues the Democrat editorial, "will come from the State Highway Department. Senate Bill 55 ingeniously provides a lease arrangement whereby once the Toll Authority builds the toll road it will lease it to the State Highway Department to operate and maintain."

If you, like your editor, have been thinking of supporting the toll road proposal the Democrat's editorial throws an adverse light on the subject.

Even though the proposal would help our southwestern section of Arkansas we have no business trafficking in a matter which would hurt the general highway system that serves all sections of Arkansas.

S.B. 55 of 1971 should be knocked out promptly in the House.

Our position stands on principle. Helena formed an improvement district to build a bridge across the Mississippi River, and then, when tolls failed to cover the private financing the state government was asked to take over the bond obligation. We opposed the take-over—and now we oppose a similar procedure which happens to be aimed for the benefit of our particular section but has the makings of a plea to unload on the state in years to come.

The ominous factor is just this: The only study of traffic revenue available on the western toll road project failed to show enough potential revenue to support the venture.

Snake Sweater Is Turtleneck

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Fred looked cold and even a cold-blooded snake could use a warm sweater.

That's what 8-year-old Coleen Olson thought.

She crocheted Fred a sweater. Fred lives in a glass-fronted cage in Coleen's third-grade classroom at Walter Douglas School. Ringed in banana hues of yellow and black, Fred is 40 inches long. The sweater is somewhat shorter.

The two-toned pullover is hot pink on top and baby pink on the bottom.

"That's all the yarn I had," said Coleen, who has one year's knitting and crocheting experience.

The style? "It's a snake-neck sweater," Coleen giggled. "He'd NEVER wear a turtleneck one."

8 Americans Killed in Cong Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces killed eight Americans and wounded 25 early today in attacks on six U.S. positions in the central and northern provinces of South Vietnam.

The most devastating attack was a 50-round mortar barrage and ground assault on a reconnaissance team that had set up an ambush position four miles west of Chu Lai, headquarters of the U.S. Americal Division. Seven Americans were killed and seven wounded, the biggest U.S. casualties reported in a single ground action in more than six months.

The enemy forces apparently had traced the movements of the team from the 198th Brigade.

The other five American positions attacked were hit by rockets and mortars. They included the air bases at Da Nang and Cam Ranh Bay, a military adviser's compound at the Tuy Hoa air base, a helicopter unit seven miles northwest of Cam Ranh Bay and an artillery base 32 miles south of Pleiku City. The U.S. Command said one American was killed and 18 wounded.

The attack at Da Nang touched off a huge fire that destroyed thousands of gallons of fuel and damaged some aircraft. No casualties were reported.

Meanwhile, the most sustained bombing campaign of the war stretched into its 115th day today with more U.S. raids on the Ho Chi Minh trail through southern Laos.

Informed sources said some 30 B52 bombers, each carrying up to 30 tons of bombs, and about 200 smaller fighter-bombers and gunships pounded the 200-mile-long trail network in the latest round of attacks.

The U.S. Command announced the first major American unit to be phased out of Vietnam as part of President Nixon's sixth round of troop cutbacks that will reduce U.S. strength to less than 284,000 men by May 1. It is the 1st Squadron of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment, now working on local security with South Vietnamese militiamen in the Saigon region. Its departure will cut U.S. strength by 1,140 men.

The entire 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment of 5,000 men will be phased out by May 1, along with 15,000 other combat troops in the Saigon region. But the U.S. Command's weekly strength summary today reported 335,800 American troops in Vietnam last Thursday, the same figure as the previous week.

In Phnom Penh, a Cambodian military spokesman said some supplies have reached the capital from the port of Kompong Som despite ambushes along Highway 4. The highway is the Cambodian capital's route to the country's only deep water port and was cut by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong last Nov. 21.

After a major South Vietnamese-Cambodian operation to reopen the highway, South Vietnamese headquarters declared it safe last week, but a supply convoy was ambushed Saturday and Cambodian troops clashed twice Sunday with Viet Cong troops along the route.

The U.S. Command also reported that a U.S. Air Force OV10 reconnaissance plane with one man aboard was missing in Cambodia and presumed downed. The plane disappeared last Friday while on a mission over Siem Reap Province north of Tonle Sap lake.

Better Business, More Jobs Pledged by Nixon in Economic Report

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon sent Congress today a pledge of more jobs and better business in 1971, plus a promise to use "all the effective and legitimate powers of government" to strengthen anti-inflation forces.

His goal: "Full prosperity without war, full prosperity without inflation."

But Nixon rejected—perhaps more emphatically than ever before—any use of price-wage controls of voluntary guideposts. He called the latter "an elaborate facade that seems to be wage and price control but is not."

His annual economic report to Congress fixed no specific goals or deadlines for recovery. But in the accompanying 300-page report of his Council of Economic Advisers, these targets were posted and presumably approved by him:

—Unemployment — now at 6 per cent—would decline to 4½ per cent by the middle of 1972. The official definition of "full employment" is around 4 per cent.

—The inflation rate, which was 5 per cent across the whole economy last year, should be approaching 3 per cent by mid-1972.

—National output should total $1.065 trillion in 1971, requiring a record rise of $88 billion—so great some economists fear it might rekindle inflation.

Nixon's report, third and last of the major presidential messages to each new session of Congress, noted "prices have begun to rise less rapidly" and

No Solution on Ecuador, U.S. Conflict

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A solution to the U.S.-Ecuador fishing rights conflict appeared as distant as ever today despite Organization of American States efforts to bring the two sides together.

A special weekend meeting of OAS foreign ministers passed a mildly worded resolution which refrained from passing judgment.

The resolution called on the two nations to negotiate their differences, avoid aggravating the dispute and rigorously observe the principles of the OAS charter.

American officials expressed satisfaction that their biggest pre-conference worry—a direct hemispheric censure of American policy—was avoided.

Ecuadorian Foreign Minister Jose Maria Ponce Yepes declared the conference was "a complete victory" for his side. He said the OAS call for adherence to charter principles carried with it an implicit denunciation of what he has described as American coercion.

The use of economic or political coercion against a member state is prohibited by the charter. Ponce Yepes said the United States was guilty of coercion in suspending military sales to Ecuador two weeks ago following a series of seizures of American fishing vessels off that nation's coast.

He also said Ecuador would not agree to negotiate the issue with the United States as long as the suspension remains in effect and warned that his nation would continue to seize American vessels operating without proper documentation within the 200-mile limit Ecuador claims as its territorial waters.

For its part, the United States held firm to its allegation that international law specifies that all waters beyond 12 miles from any coastline are international territory. It has repeatedly said the solution to the problem lies in independent mediation or through the four-nation talks begun in 1969 involving the United States, Ecuador, Peru and Chile.

The proceeding was instituted by four Pine Bluff National Bank stockholders, including Jones, who also acted as attorney for the group, which was seeking an order to allow them to inspect the bank's financial records.

The U.S. Supreme Court has held in some cases that actual malice must be demonstrated before a verdict of libel can be returned, but the state Supreme Court said that the rule of malice cannot be applied to news reports of judicial proceedings.

Associate Justice Frank Holt said in today's opinion that exact reporting can be expected in every instance on judicial proceedings.

"Court records are available; and, insofar as reports of progress proceedings are concerned the threat of a libel prosecution emanates only from incompetent reporting," Holt wrote.

He said that fear of a costly lawsuit for inaccurately, though honestly, reporting matters concerning public officials would discourage the exercise of the degree of freedom which the Constitution guarantees to the press, "especially in matters where even good faith investigative efforts cannot assure absolute accuracy." In such cases, proof of malice would be a prerequisite to recover damages from those whose reports were challenged, he said.

"Since it is always possible for a report of a judicial proceeding to be complete, impartial and accurate, we decline to engraft the actual malice requirement onto our present rule, regardless of the notoriety of the subject matter of participants involved in the judicial proceedings," the state court held.

Apollo 14 Crew Fails to Find Malfunction That Threatens Landing

Docking Was Tricky for Astronauts

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — Pouring water into a narrow-necked bottle without a funnel is tricky, but not impossible.

Astronaut Stuart A. Roosa performed a similar task Sunday night when he docked the Apollo 14 command ship and the lunar module without, in effect, a funnel.

The "funnel" is a bowl-shaped depression on the lunar module, Antares. This depression is called a drogue.

The Apollo 14 command ship, Kitty Hawk, has a cone-shaped probe which is tipped with three latches. These latches are designed to penetrate a hole in the bottom of the drogue and hook over the lip of the hole.

When this happens, the astronauts call it "capture."

After capture is achieved, the probe retracts, pulling the two spacecraft together.

As this happens, 12 larger latches located in a ring back of the probe hook on to a docking collar on the lunar module.

This is what the astronauts call hard dock. The spacecraft are firmly joined together and held rigid by the 12 latches.

The probe and drogue can then be withdrawn from the docking mechanism and brought inside the command ship. This opens a tunnel into the lunar module, allowing the astronauts to move back and forth.

But Sunday night something happened to the funnel.

For some reason, the capture latches were not hooking the lip of the drogue.

Roosa tried five times, and each time the capture latches slipped.

If the capture latches won't work, Mission Control reasoned, why not retract the probe to allow the docking latches behind the probe to engage?

Roosa, following instructions, retracted the probe. Then he inched forward, farther into the tunnel than before. He continued to fire small thrusters to keep the command ship's point drilling ever tighter against the drogue. Then, suddenly, the docking latches slammed into place on the docking collar.

"I got hard dock," Roosa shouted. And cheers drifting down from space joined those in Mission Control.

The problem had been bypassed by some sharp flying by Roosa. But the cause of the problem was still unknown.

Weekend City Police report shows four traffic violations, five license violations, three arrested for drunkenness, two for driving while intoxicated, one for disturbing the peace, three minors picked up for possessing beer and one accident.

—The Apollo 14 crew, using a flashlight and radioed do-it-yourself instructions, tried unsuccessfully today to pinpoint the cause of a malfunction that threatens to wipe out their long-sought landing on the forbidding moon of Fra Mauro.

Alan B. Shepard Jr., the patriarch of American spacemen; and rookies Edgar D. Mitchell and Stuart A. Roosa deliberately tried for more than an hour to make a linking mechanism fail to work—as it had when they attempted to dock their command ship with the lunar lander earlier.

"It works," Roosa said finally. "Just real fine."

The apparatus must be able to work for its next use, when Shepard and Mitchell would return from the lunar surface to link again with the command ship piloted by Roosa.

"We will have to convince ourselves . . . that the thing is indeed satisfactory for docking," said Sigurd Sjoberg, director of flight operations.

Asked whether the astronauts will go through with Friday's landing attempt on the moon's craggy highlands, Sjoberg said, "I'd like not to speculate on that right now."

The astronauts worked the latches by hand on instructions from Houston without a single failure.

"You've exhausted our imagination for right now on trouble-shooting the probe," said Mission Control. "We'll worry about it some more overnight and be back with you in the morning."

There was no argument from the astronauts, who had been awake for more than 19 hours by that time and in the spacecraft for 16 of those. No threat to their safety was involved.

Experts who had watched their efforts via television studied the problem during the crew's 10 hours sleep time.

Unlike Apollo 13, which was endangered by an explosion, this was a little—but frustrating problem. Sjoberg said if the landing could not be made, the astronauts would attempt an alternate mission of orbiting the moon.

The trouble confronted the astronauts three hours after launch Sunday when they turned their command ship for docking.

On previous flights the maneuver was routine. The mother ship would edge forward from its stack, turn around, and hook onto the lunar lander nose-to-nose. Then the command ship can pull the moonship out of the spent third stage of the Saturn 5 rocket.

This time, three small latches on the docking mechanism—shorter than a cigarette and not much wider—failed to lock into position in five move-up, back-out tries. On the sixth, using an unorthodox procedure, the ships mated.

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas State University Board of Trustees called Saturday for a person to be hired at the state level to assist colleges and universities in recruiting more minority group faculty members.

Board member Elijah Coleman of Pine Bluff, a Negro, said a study by the Arkansas Council on Human Relations showed the amount of blacks on Arkansas' college faculties "almost nil." He said one reason was because qualified Negroes are hard to find.

The board also adopted a resolution to investigate the possibility of building a new football stadium, after examining some preliminary plans for a proposed stadium.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The moon landing mission of Apollo 14 is in jeopardy following the failure of the mechanism used in docking the command ship to the lunar lander in space. The two ships were successfully docked using an alternate method and the mechanism removed to determine why it failed. A decision on whether to go ahead with a landing was to be made later.

The malfunction presented no danger to the safety of the three astronauts on the mission.

Conviction of Murder Is Upheld

By BILL SIMMONS
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court did a turnaround today and affirmed the first-degree murder conviction of Dewey Ray Murray in the fatal shooting Dec. 31, 1968 of the Hughes city marshal, Jessie J. Morgan.

The high court had held last Nov. 9 that Murray was entitled to a new trial.

The earlier opinion said that the trial judge, Elmo Taylor, had erred by failing to give the jury instructions on second-degree murder and other degrees of homicide.

Associate Justices Conley Byrd and Frank Holt dissented. Byrd said in his dissenting opinion that he found "no pleasure in reversing a criminal case when the accused's conduct is akin to that of a vicious beast, even though the law requires a new trial."

He said that the failure of Taylor to instruct the jury on second-degree murder was, in his opinion, grounds for a new trial.

The majority opinion today held, however, that instructing the jury only on a first-degree murder created a situation where Murray would be found guilty of first-degree murder or nothing.

Murray originally was charged with premeditated murder, but Taylor, when giving instructions to the jury, said the information had been amended to allege that the killing occurred during the perpetration of a robbery.

The high court said the record reflected that the amendment was made in the judge's chamber before a jury was selected to try the case. The record upon which today's Supreme Court decision was based amended the original transcript.

Morgan died of multiple bullet wounds at a grocery store on U.S. 79 south of Hughes.

Franklin David Bosnick Sr. and Franklin David Bosnick Jr. were convicted of first-degree murder in the same case and sentenced to die, but the Supreme Court granted new trials to each of them.

Pollution Group Holds Conference

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Members of the Arkansas Pollution Control Commission met with a delegation from Hot Springs headed by Mayor Tom Ellisworth Friday and said three plans for revamping the city's sewer and water treatment facilities might be acceptable.

S. Ladd Davis, commission director, said three of the plans presented might meet both federal and state standards.

Last March the commission ordered the city to repair its sewage system and prohibited any new connections to existing lines after saying Hot Springs was polluting nearby lakes and streams.

The plans are:
—A $21 million facility with one treatment plant.
—A $20 million plant with one facility.

—A $17 million plan with one new facility and improvements to the present two, making three facilities altogether.

nick was sentenced to life in prison, but the older Bosnick was again sentenced to death. In December, however, Bosnick's death sentence was commuted by then Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

Murray thus becomes the first person to go back on death row in the state since no action was taken on his case by Rockefeller.

Overpopulation Is Threat

CALLAWAY GARDENS, Ga. (AP) — Nobel Prize winner Dr. George C. Wald has told an environmental conference that mankind's three greatest threats are overpopulation, pollution and the threat of nuclear warfare.

The Harvard biologist, who won the 1967 Nobel Prize for medicine for his research into the chemistry of vision, blamed upper middle-class Americans for much of the world's environmental abuses.

BETTER BUSINESS

added: "There are the first faint signs of a retardation in wage increases in some sectors."

Nixon said his $229.2-billion "full employment budget," sent to Congress on Friday, would provide a solid stimulus to expansion. Its outlays will rise $16.5 billion from this year's spending level, causing an estimated $11.6-billion deficit.

The President hinted at some lack of confidence in the estimate of the deficit. "How big the actual deficit will be," he said, "will depend on economic conditions."

But Nixon stressed anew his belief in the "full employment budget" theory, under which federal spending is considered stimulative but not inflationary when it does not exceed the revenues that the tax system would yield if the economy were operating at full employment.

Larger spending would be inflationary and must be avoided "except in emergencies," Nixon said.

Some expansive forces are now at work, Nixon pointed out. They include a 40-per cent rise in the rate of new housing starts from a year ago, strongly increased state and local government spending, sharply reduced interest rates, rising after-tax incomes, and the catching-up of the auto industry from the General Motors strike.

Neither the President nor the council, however, offered an estimate of the anticipated gain in real output or a forecast of the 1971 rate of price advance. The projected rise of $88 billion in gross national product would be a 9-per cent gain; some government experts have suggested it might be about 4 1/2 per cent real increase, 4 1/2 per cent inflation.

State Trooper, Wife Found Shot to Death

VAN BUREN, Ark. (AP) — An investigation was continuing today into the shooting death Sunday of State Police Trooper Ed Blackard, 51, and his wife, Kathryn, 47, of near Van Buren.

Crawford County Sheriff Bill Vickery said that Mrs. Blackard called the sheriff's office late Sunday and told a deputy to call an ambulance because "we have shot each other."

Vickery said Blackard was dead on arrival at Crawford County Hospital. His wife died a few minutes after arrival at the hospital, he said.

The victims were found in the kitchen of their home about 2 1/2 miles east of Van Buren. Blackard's service revolver, a .357 magnum, was found nearby. Two bullets had been fired from the weapon, Vickery said.

Blackard joined the State Police in 1947.

Tides Push Floods Inland in Mozambique

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (AP) — Strong tides pushed new floods inland today over the Zambezia area of northern Mozambique, and disease and starvation threatened more than 100,000 Africans driven from their homes by cyclone Felice last week.

An area half the size of Portugal is under water, officials said. Some districts had almost a year's rain in 48 hours.

Twenty bodies have been recovered, but officials fear the toll will rise much higher. Pilots who have flown over the stricken area think hundreds may have been swept away.

Physical Fitness Discussed

"Arboics," a type of physical fitness program, was discussed by Rotarian Paul Klipsch at the regular luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club on Friday, January 29 at the Town and Country.

"Jogging one mile burns up 150 calories," the speaker said as he emphasized that age is no factor in carrying out this exercise. However, he advised getting the sanction of a doctor before beginning a physical fitness program and using the proper equipment for carrying it out.

Using himself as an example, Mr. Klipsch told of the improvement to heart and lungs resulting from a careful practice of Arboics, and he strongly advised everyone to give consideration to having such a program. Questions from his listeners were answered after his presentation.

President C.R. "Dick" Moore welcomed a visiting Rotarian, Ted Mahr of Texarkana, and another guest from that city, Charles Mauk. The Rotary Ann Banquet was announced for February 26, and the committee named to complete arrangements for it consists of Syd McMath, Bill Wray and Cecil Bittle. The president named Jack Beaty, Benny Coleman and Dr. Sam Strong to a nominating committee to select officers for next year. Another group of club members agreed to look into the problem of school financing along with other interested citizens and to report to the club on their findings.

RAIL STRIKES

sions expired. At issue are union demands for a three-year contract providing an estimated 40 per cent boost over current wages averaging about $3.50 an hour, a cost of living increase and other benefits.

The industry had accepted a mediation panel's recommendation of a 32 per cent pay boost for members of the involved unions—the clerks, the UTW, brotherhood of Maintenance of Way and the Hotel and Restaurant Employees.

Should the problem end up in Congress again, time would become a critical factor.

Though House committee reorganization should be complete within a week, there remains the question of who will head the Commerce Committee's transportation subcommittee. Then, Congress recesses for Lincoln's Birthday from Feb. 10-17.

Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., has been asked to schedule hearings as soon as the organizational structure is completed.

Nixon, in the last Congress, requested legislation to deal with emergency strikes not only on railroads but in other transportation industries.

Both the House and Senate committees have said hearings will be held this year.

The administration's proposal last year would have permitted partial operation of an industry involved in a strike. It also required labor and management each to submit "final offers" to the Secretary of Labor and, if there was no agreement in five days, a neutral, three-man federal board would have chosen one offer as binding.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Television and radio made it possible for the public to participate vicariously in the difficulties aboard Apollo 14 during the anxious hours Sunday.

There were television pictures from the command module, some of them live, broadcast during frequent interruptions of regularly scheduled programs. They showed the lunar landing craft in close to docking position as the space vehicles raced toward the moon. Then, in close-up, we saw the successful maneuver.

Earlier the three networks, with skill born of long practice, had provided their usual well-organized, informed coverage of the start of a moon mission. This part went smoothly since the news teams were prepared with filler material for possible delays.

Cape Kennedy weather conditions provided the first element of suspense, with some speculation about a long delay. Then the rocket soared into space, with some especially dramatic color pictures shot by a TV launching site.

Addition of former astronauts to the network reporting teams — Walter Schirra once again on CBS, Allan Bean on NBC and Frank Borman on ABC — gave some extra authority to the coverage of lift-off. Unfortunately, none of them was still around to help when the networks were patching together their emergency coverage of the docking problem.

NBC's Friday night special, an assortment of circus acts, is one of those television perennials, like ice shows. Jack Cassidy, the enthusiastic ringmaster, brought on the usual trapeze and wire acts, the acrobats, the lions, bears, elephants and clowns. Some of the thrills are missing in a taped TV show, but it was a pleasant hour for the children and their elders.

HE'S SCOTCH ABOUT HIS SCOTCH

Dear Helen: You think you know everything about the girl you married and then...I came home last night to find my wife's wedding and engagement rings soaking in almost a half-jigger of my best Scotch! Whisky, she says, is a great cleaner for diamonds, and Scotch being most expensive—well nothing but the best for the rings I gave my bride.

What do you call this, Helen?—DENNIS

Dear Dennis: Scotch on the rocks, what else?

Be glad your bride hasn't read somewhere that booze is superior for washing down walls.And tell her diluted ammonia is less risky than whisky, husbandwise. —H.

Dear Helen: Our daughter says it's going around school that peanut butter and butter sandwiches are aphrodisiac. (Something about mixing the two.) She heard it in her sex education class, though not from the teacher. Could this have a grain of truth?—ALL THOSE YEARS OF PEANUT BUTTER

Dear All: ...Not even a speck! Nor is it true about mandrake root, sea foods, ground up tiger claws, or snail heads in spicy sauce.

(Ah, sex education classes—they DO make life interesting for parents.)—H.

Dear Helen: I have been married to a sweet, Christian wife for 20 years. This has left me kind of alone because I am not saved. So I went out a lot, though it was never serious. That is, until I met this 24-year-old girl two years ago.

I found out she had three children, but only one of them was her husband's. You see, she'd been separated several times, and each time some guy came along, fooled her and left her with a baby.

I made up my mind I would prove to her that all men were not alike, so I bought her clothes and treated her like a princess. Also paid her rent when she couldn't manage it.

Then she got a call from her sister in Cleveland: Sickens in the family. I paid for her plane ticket and got new luggage for her. Soon she wrote that she'd cashed in the other half of her ticket and spent the money to live on, and "Please help, as I have no one else to turn to." I sent her all the money I had and she wrote back saying she must be falling in love with me.

So I sent her fare to come home the next week, and everything went fine—until she announced she was going back to her husband, who now had a good job.

That didn't last long, and since I was still crazy about her, I went back to supporting two families. I should say here that this girl is the helpless, dreamy, kind of withdrawn type that worries you when she isn't happy. So I sent her to Cleveland to help her morale. I gave her $400 and she swore she'd always be true to me. Her next letter said she was tired of her old life and it was all over between us. I now haven't heard from her in two months. Her children are farmed out to relatives here and they won't or can't tell me anything.

Helen, please tell a fool in love what to do?—F.P.

Dear F.:

... Get smart! Look, friend, you were took, and took plenty. If your sweet, patient wife will have you, crawl back to her and try to make up for all those years of FOOLING around.—H.

Quandary: To Eat Or Not Eat Fish

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Nutrition Columnist

A two-way push, pro and con, is going for the sale of fish. It is felt particularly in the meals-away-from-home business.

First, heart specialists and nutritionists are urging people, particularly men, to learn to eat and enjoy fish because of its polyunsaturated fat, which is said to help in the prevention of heart disease. More and more men are now following this advice.

Then, out of the blue, comes the removal of millions of cans of polluted tuna fish from the market. Although the Food and Drug Administration swears that despite the fact 23 per cent of all samples tested have contained excessive amounts of mercury, there is no danger. It is not a health hazard, they state.

Even so, the popular tuna sandwich is quickly disappearing from the lunch counter menu.

The frozen Pacific swordfish gets into the mercury act, too. The FDA is withdrawing a large percentage of the frozen fish from the market. So where does that leave our increasing seafood restaurants?

Edmund Lillys, a knowledgeable judge of fish quality and also owner of the renowned Gloucester House on East 50 Street in New York, is worried about present and future business.

"So many things today affect business adversely we can't tell exactly what is happening over this latest fish contamination scare. But we do know everyone seems frightened. They are constantly talking about the mercury in fish," Lillys explains.

Higher prices, economic slowdown and increasing unemployment are some of the other adverse circumstances.

"Fish is a nervous business. Weather affects it, particularly snow. Right now, besides worry over mercury in fish, we have another problem. Crime in the streets. Our luncheon business is a sell-out. But fewer people are willing to come out at night, fearing muggings and holdups, even on East 50th St., one of the safest in the city," he reports.

"So we can't tell exactly what the effect of the mercury scare has on our sales. There are too many other things at the same time. But people keep asking about swordfish, for example, even though ours is not frozen and comes from off Virginia, not the Pacific. People feel something is wrong, though they don't fully understand. I think we are now becoming acutely aware of pollution. Pollution of our food. This certainly doesn't help business, not even ours, despite our reputation for the finest fresh fish obtainable."

Steadily rising prices for fish in eating places is also hurting business.

"Prices must go up. There is no greater amount of fish being brought to market. Yet there are many more customers today because wives are cautioning their husbands to eat fish for lunch. For their hearts sake, as the doctors warn. So the men order fish at a restaurant. They don't particularly like it. But gradually fish is better prepared and then they begin to enjoy it. So we build up a new line of customers. But there will not be more fish available. So the prices must go up."

Lillys, a Greek born in Istanbul, was raised in the fish business. He sees many changes ahead in the American life style. He is active among leading restaurant groups.

Hope Girls Win Tourney at Nashville

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer

Last Saturday night, the Hope Kittycats invaded Scrapperland to do battle with the Nashville junior girls in the finals of the Nashville tournament.

Hope prepared Nashville for the scrap pile, shelling the Scrappers, 47-24, and late in the game, sending the remainder of the bench to rest the starters.

Coach Charlotte Burnett's girls were never behind as they took an early lead and gradually added on, to win, after the final seconds had ticked off, the first place championship trophy and how they deserved it!

Hope took an early 4-0 lead on field goals by Gigi Gladney and Corny Coleman and although Nashville hit two points later, the Kittycats hit five more points, three by Gladney and two by Coleman, to take a 9-3 lead at the end of the first period.

Although Nashville scored the opening points of the second quarter, it was as close as they could get.

After Gladney hit two buckets, Jill Herring raced to the left and went right, laying the ball up and through the hoop for a 15-7 margin, forcing Nashville into a timeout to regroup.

Immediately after the ball was put back in play, Gladney and Coleman hit back to back baskets and five more points widened the margin to 24-10 at halftime.

One more half was all the Kittycats needed for the first place trophy, and they weren't about to let it get away.

Taking the second half tipoff, the Kittycats scored quickly on goals by Coleman and Gladney.

Later, Coleman hit five straight points and then Gladney hit the final two points of the quarter with three seconds left, to give the Kittycats a 36-14 margin moving in to the last period.

Although getting the tipoff in the last quarter, the Kittycats could not score, and only Coleman hit any points for the first three minutes, with Hope hitting a cold streak.

However, after a Hope timeout with 3:25 left to play, the Kittycats started hitting again, outscoring Nashville the rest of the way, 9-4.

Coleman quickly hit a three point play and two layups by Gladney lifted the Kittycat's lead to 24 points, 45-21.

With the reserves now filling the Hope lineup, they too played well, although a 12 foot shot by Gail East with 54 seconds left, was all Hope could get for the final score.

Outstanding defensive work by Carol Frazier, Mona Rowe, and Sharon Rateliff, with help from Cathy McCorkle, kept the Scrappers scoring down all night, forcing the outside shots and little rebounding by Nashville.

Tonight the Ladycats and B-Bruins will travel to Emmet for a pair of games at 6:30 p.m., while the Kittycats, with a present 12-5 record, travel to Gurdon with the Bobkittens, Thursday night.

Mississippi's Neumann Is Rated Tops

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

They call him a Rebel, the Hot Hand Luke of the Southeast.

His name is Johnny Neumann ... and smile when you say that, pardner.

"He's a great athlete and a great shooter," says Louisiana State's Press Maravich of the dazzling Mississippi sophomore.

When you're talking college basketball scorers, Maravich should know. He coached a great one for three years—his son, Pete.

Although some are comparing Neumann with The Pistol because of his run-and-gun penchant, Press bows out of a serious discussion.

"I've only seen Neumann once," said Press, referring to Saturday night's 113-90 licking of LSU by Mississippi. "I really can't make a comparison. But I know Neumann will probably be No. 1 in the country, just like Pete was."

"I was impressed by Neumann's great movement without the ball, his strong grip and good finger control. Pete, of course, was a great playmaker. And I think Neumann will be ... in time."

Neumann, at 6-foot-6 an inch taller than Pistol Pete, added 63 points to his nation-leading total Saturday night. He's averaging over 42 points a game, which is up in the rarified Maravich stratosphere.

Austin Carr, Neumann's closest competitor with a plus-37-point average, only could manage 23—and that cost seventh-ranked Notre Dame a 69-66 overtime upset loss to No. 18 Illinois Saturday night.

There were few other surprises in the Top Ten. Other than ninth-rated Utah State's 76-72 defeat by Air Force, the rest won.

Top-ranked Marquette took the night off, but No. 2 UCLA blew by UC-Santa Barbara 74-61; No. 3 Southern California stomped Chicago Loyola 97-73; No. 5 Kansas whipped Iowa State 95-72; eighth-rated Tennessee smashed Auburn 90-68 and 10th-ranked South Carolina throttled No. 15 Virginia 92-70.

Neumann, who's been packing arenas around the Southeastern Conference a la Pete Maravich, had the LSU defenders hogtied and hypnotized.

Neumann shot the eyes out of the basket, hitting 26 of 40 from the floor, to fall only six points short of Pistol Pete's conference record 69.

While Carr was running out of gas, Illinois' Nick Connor put on a high-octane performance by hitting two crucial field goals in overtime for the Irish upset.

Curtis Rowe scored 28 points to pace the UCLA success, but Coach John Wooden wasn't entirely happy.

"We were not playing well as a team," said Wooden, after directing the Bruins' 135th victory in their last 140 games. "We're missing the open man, we're not reacting on defense and we're just not playing well."

He was enthused, though, about Rowe's performance—the star's highest output in a month.

Southern California's victory over Loyola of Chicago was its 16th without a loss, a rarity among the Top Twenty. Only other undefeated clubs in the blue ribbon group are Marquette and Penn, No. 4.

Among Second Ten clubs, No. 11 Kentucky smacked Vanderbilt 102-92; 12th-rated Western Kentucky beat Middle Tennessee 80-66; No. 13 Oregon was upset by Denver 93-83; No. 14 LaSalle clouted Hofstra 79-62; 17th-ranked Duquesne topped Creighton 72-69; No. 19 Murray State defeated Austin Peay 90-76 and 20th-rated North Carolina crushed Maryland 105-79.

maining to give Southern Methodist a 90-88 Southwest Conference basketball victory over Arkansas Saturday.

SMU is now 2-2 in the SWC race and Arkansas is winless in four games.

Almer Lee of Arkansas fouled Delzell as SMU stalled for a final shot. Delzell, a junior, was 11-11 from the line for the day.

John Searles of Arkansas had tied the game 88-all with 49 seconds left on a layup.

Arkansas, down 55-50 at halftime, reeled off 10 straight points before Steve Putman hit a jump shot to put SMU on the board in the second half.

Baseball Hall of Fame Open to Oldtimers

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The doors of Baseball's Hall of Fame swung open today for seven old timers elected by a veterans' committee after the regular ballot of the Baseball Writers' Association of America had failed last month to name any moderns to the shrine.

Legendary pitcher Rube Marquard, who shares the record of 19 consecutive victories in a single season, and George M. Weiss, the executive genius who built the New York Yankees into an awesome powerhouse from the late 1940s until the 1960s, led the advance of the oldtimers.

Also named were outfielders Harry Hooper, Joe Kelley and Chuck Hafey, first baseman Jake Beckley and shortstop Dave Bancroft.

Marquard, who won 201 games pitching mostly for the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers, from 1908-25, Hooper, who hit .281 in 16 American League seasons and Kelley and Beckley, both pre-1900 stars, were named as "real oldtimers," whose careers ended by 1925.

"I was surprised," said Hooper, now 83. "I've been eligible for this honor for 40 years. Naturally, most all the people who ever saw me play are dead, so it's pretty hard to get in."

Hafey and Bancroft both starred in the 1920-30 era when the others players named Sunday were winding up their careers.

"That was great news," said Hafey, 67, who batted .317 in 13 seasons with St. Louis and Cincinnati and led the National League with a .349 mark in 1931.

"I've been out so darned long—'37 was my last year—I didn't think I was ever going to get in there."

Bancroft, a switch-hitting, fancy fielder, had a career .279 average in 16 NL seasons.

Weiss was the unanimous selection of the 12-man committee in the executive category. He served first as farm director and later as general manager of Yankee teams which won 19 American League pennants and 15 World Series.

Weiss ruled the Yankee front office as GM from 1947-60 and over that period the Yankees

Archer Wins San Diego Tournament

PGA Seniors Tourney Won by Boros

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — When Julius Boros, of North Miami, eagled the par five first hole on the PGA National Golf Club east course in his first competitive round as a senior professional, he had a very comfortable feeling he would like senior competition.

On his second and third round he birdied the same hole and on his fourth round of the PGA mercury Seniors championship Sunday he missed a birdie by one inch.

"I felt like I would want to play all the rest of my tournaments on that first hole or possibly put a down payment on it," he said. The first hole is a 523-yard double dog leg which played to about 490 yards Sunday.

Boros went on for a closing 72 and a 285 total that won him $40,000 out of $40,000 prize money in the PGA Seniors Golf championship. And in doing that he outlasted Tommy Bolt of St. Petersburg who led at the end of two rounds by five shots and three rounds by one. Bolt finished with a 76 and second place worth $3,000. Sammy Snead, the defending champion, was third at 289 for $2,000.

Bolt complained of a back strain at the end of 54 holes and said he might not finish. But he did. Boros said he also has had some back strain from time to time, "ever since I bent over to pick a ball out of the cup in one hole of the U.S. Open tournament years ago."

Snead finished with a par 72 to cut into the five-shot lead Bolt held over him at the end of 54 holes and finished one stroke behind at 289. Overnight Sammy had some putting instructions and went back to the orthodox style of putting, forgetting his side-saddle stance except on very short putts.

Leaders Will Decide Who Is Top Gun

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
There'll just be one top gun in the Southland Conference after Saturday.

Abilene Christian and Arkansas State, tied for the SLC basketball lead with 2-0 conference records collided in Abilene in the spotlight matchup of the week. Both teams also have 9-6 season totals.

ACC pulled even with Arkansas State last week with SLC victories over Texas-Arlington and Trinity. Arkansas State downed Trinity and The Citadel in its two outings last week.

Several streaks are intact in the SLC. Arkansas State has won four straight, Trinity has lost six in a row. But Lamar Tech ended its losing streak at five Saturday by downing Texas-Arlington 83-76.

The leader of ACC's recent stampede is senior guard Ronnie Hearn, who scored 60 points in ACC's two victories last week. Hearn is tied for second in the SLC scoring race with Lamar Tech's Luke Adams, each with a 20.0 average.

Trinity's Felix Thruston continues to lead SLC scorers with a 25.4 average. UTA plays at Trinity and Air Force is at ACC in games to night.

Patterson Leads Tigers to Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Tommy Patterson scored 29 points and led Ouachita Baptist University to an 86-77 AIC basketball victory over Arkansas AM&N Saturday night.

The victory boosted OBU's conference record to 8-5. The Tigers are now just a half game behind third-place Henderson.

In the only other AIC contest Saturday night, Henderson rolled over Hendrix 91-77. Henderson is now 8-4 and Hendrix is 4-9.

Bruins Acquire Potential Super Star

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins, bent on a National Hockey League scoring record, boasted additional firepower today with the acquisition of veteran Mike Walton, a potential super star who had a falling out with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Bruins, the mightiest scoring machine in NHL history with 239 goals in just 49 games while en route to shattering their league record of 303 set in the 1968-69 season, acquired Walton Sunday night in a three-way deal with Toronto and the Philadelphia Flyers.

The 26-year-old Walton scored 73 goals the past three seasons, but ran into trouble with the Toronto brass this season. He scored just three goals and had 10 assists before he was suspended by the Leafs.

The Bruins, who own a six-point lead with one game in hand on the New York Rangers in the East Division race, started the Walton deal rolling by sending rookie Dan Schock to Philadelphia recently for "future considerations."

Then, to complete the three-way trade, the Bruins sent rookie prospect Rick McLeish to the Flyers. Philadelphia, in turn, traded goalie Bernie Parent, a former Bruin, to Toronto for goalie Bruce Gamble, a 32-year-old veteran.

Cougars Use Free Throws to Keep Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The best things in life are free. Ask the Carolina Cougars. The Cougars used four free throws in the last minute to stave off a New York rally and beat the Nets 125-121 in the American Basketball Association Sunday.

New York, losing 110-97, had climbed back within 121-119 after Sonny Dove's jump shot with 54 seconds left.

Then George Lehmann and Frank Card each canned two from the foul line to wrap it up and give the Cougars their longest winning streak of the season — three games.

Elsewhere in the ABA, it was Floridians 95, Texas 92; Virginia 126, Pittsburgh 123; Utah 138, Kentucky 129 and Indiana 124, Denver 104.

In the National Basketball Association, New York bombed Baltimore 125-95; Boston whipped Philadelphia 132-126; Chicago clipped Cincinnati 121-99; Atlanta hammered San Diego 131-120; Cleveland stopped Buffalo 117-108; Milwaukee crushed Detroit 131-104 and Los Angeles topped Portland 133-120.

In the ABA Saturday, it was New York 115, Virginia 112; Carolina 114, Denver 109 and Memphis 109, Floridians 96.

Lehmann, a former Net, wound up with 28 points and Joe Caldwell finished with 26 for Carolina. Joe DePre had 28, Manny Leaks, 26 and Rick Barry, 21 for the Nets, who trailed 58-56 at the half and 94-89 entering the final period.

The Floridians, with Mack Calvin's 28 points leading the scoring, broke away to nip Texas in the closing minutes. Calvin hit a three-pointer with 5:16 left to put the Floridians ahead 85-84—and they never trailed.

Neil Johnson scored 26 points, including the tie-breaking field goal with 36 seconds left, to pace Virginia. Charlie Scott had a game-high 33 points for the winners and John Brisker led Pittsburgh with 30.

31 Accidents on Bobsled Course

By ENRICO JACOMINI
CERVINIA, Italy (AP) — Although Switzerland and Italy wound up with top honors in the 1971 World Bobsled Championship, bobsled officials noted today that there were more losers than winners in the 13-day tourney.

Thirty-one accidents, one fatal, turned this championships into the most accident-prone since World War II. Only 12 four-man crews out of a scheduled 26 concluded the championship. Many of them were patched up or reserve teams.

In the last day of competition Sunday, Rene Stadler cracked all records on the 1,540-meter course to drive Switzerland one to victory in the four-man event.

It was Switzerland's first gold medal in 14 years, ever since Hans Zoller grabbed the four-man title in St. Moritz in 1957. It was also a dramatic setback for the Italians who should know their home course.

Oddly, both titles were awarded after two heats, instead of the scheduled four. The international jury dropped two in both events because of bad weather.

The decision to cancel the first two heats of the four-man brought official protests from Switzerland, Germany, Britain and Canada. Many riders suggested the jury had been influenced by the organizers to favor the Italians, who were leading in the two-man when it was cut short and who had flipped before the four-man race was postponed 24 hours.

The big disappointment of the championships were the Americans. They came in 12th with the only sled they managed to place in the two-man and were conspicuously absent in the four-man event.

Arkansas State held a 33-31 halftime advantage after a close first half in which the lead changed hands six times. But The Citadel hit only 32 per cent from the field in the second half and the Indians pulled away easily.

ASU hit 51 per cent of its shots in the first half and finished with a 48 per cent shooting average.

Jim French Could Aton for Defeat

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jim French gets an opportunity this week to atone for his defeat in the Hibiscus Stakes as the wedding out of Kentucky Derby probabilities continues in thoroughbred horse racing.

The occasion is the $25,000 seven-furlong Bahamas Stakes for 3-year-olds at Hialeah Wednesday. Jim French, a fast closing fourth to Executioner in the six-furlong Hibiscus in his last start, worked a half mile in 47 3-5 over the weekend indicating his sharpness.

His Majesty, Impetuosity and Dathan are among the other probabilities for the Bahamas, regarded as a prep for the Flamingo which, in turn, is a stepping stone to Derby at Churchill Downs in May.

There are three $50,000 features on Saturday, the San Pasqual Handicap at Santa Anita, the Seminole Handicap at Hialeah and the Quaker Handicap at Liberty Bell.

The upset victory of Willowick at $28.60 in the $67,600 San Fernando Stakes at Santa Anita highlighted last Saturday's national program. Loud, the odds-on favorite, finished fourth.

Jim: "The false-card play is the play of a high card when you can just as well play a lower one. Most false-cards are useless, but there are occasions when it's your only chance."

Oswald: "There are a few situations where a false-card can win and can't lose for you. We might call those plays 'automatic false-cards.'"

Jim: "South lets West hold the first two spades but has to win the third one. He discards a club from dummy and East drops a heart. In spite of 27 high-card points in the two hands, things don't look promising. South can count only seven top-card tricks. He can get to nine by playing clubs, provided East holds both honors, but South decides to go after diamonds. He leads a diamond toward dummy and finesses the jack. When it holds, South is up to eight tricks. He cashes dummy's ace of diamonds."

Oswald: "Here is the spot for the automatic false-card. If West plays the 10 of diamonds, South will make his contract. South knows West has the queen. If West false-cards with the queen, South will have a real problem. He won't know whether to play East for both missing diamonds or play that the suit will divide 3-3."

Jim: "He will probably play out three rounds of hearts. West will shed a spade on that third heart and South will know that West started with six spades, two hearts and five minor-suit cards."

Oswald: "He will probably try to drop the 10 but he may not. West's false-card has given him a problem and no one solves all bridge problems."

Deforming Rheumatoid Arthritis

LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M. D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am a 30-year-old female who has just been told I have rheumatoid arthritis in my feet and hands. Would you explain what rheumatoid arthritis is and what help is available?

Dear Reader—Rheumatoid arthritis is an inflammation of the joints that causes swelling.

A joint isn't just a junction of two bones. The ends of the bones are enclosed in a membrane or capsule filled with fluid. We call this the joint space. Tips of the bones within the joint space are covered with cartilage. Rheumatoid arthritis causes inflammation of the entire joint space, causing pain and swelling of the joint. As the inflammation progresses it damages the cartilage and destroys the normal joint structure, leading to major deformities. The range of motion of the bones involved in the inflamed joint may be limited, causing an individual to be disabled.

Rheumatoid arthritis should not be confused with degenerative arthritis which is usually related to wear and tear associated with increasing age. Rheumatoid arthritis is fairly common and occurs often in young adults. The average age at onset is 35 years. It is three times as common in women as in men. About five million people in the United States have this problem and it occurs throughout the world.

Rheumatoid arthritis affects the whole body, not just the joints. Often it begins subtly as mild attacks of fatigue and stiffness and soreness. These episodes may go away and then recur, gradually becoming more severe. The swelling becomes more persistent. There may be nodules near the joints. Fever is common and an anemia may occur.

The disease often has remissions for long periods of time. This makes it difficult to be certain that any treatment was useful or if the remission would have occurred spontaneously.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Petrified Forest is part of Arizona's Painted Desert and has the world's largest known display of petrified wood. The World Almanac says. These trees were killed by fire, insects and fungus; then covered by mud, sand and volcanic ash containing silica. The wood became petrified by absorbing silica carried by ground water.

Your doctor can use special tests to confirm the presence of the rheumatoid activity.

We really don't know what causes the disease but the best bet is that it is a reaction to a virus or a complex allergic reaction of the body to an infection and its own immune mechanism.

I'll discuss another day a lot of important aspects of treatment. One of the most important is the correct use of simple aspirin. In most people aspirin is as effective as or better than any other medicine. It takes a lot more than required to relieve a simple headache. The goal is not just to relieve pain. The large doses of aspirin diminish or control the inflammation. This is very important since the inflammation is what causes destruction of the joint. A person being treated with large doses of aspirin must continue the doctor's recommendation even after the pain is relieved. ONLY YOUR DOCTOR can determine how much aspirin you should take if you are going to be treated with it or a related medicine.

Admits Knicks Speed Like a Bullet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

What's faster than a speeding Bullet? Easy, a speeding New York Knickerbocker.

"They're very good against the fast break and get back so fast," said Baltimore Coach Gene Shue after the Knicks whipped the Bullets 125-95 in the National Basketball Association Sunday. "We wanted to run them all game, but couldn't do it."

It appeared that Shue wasn't quite expecting a pepped-up Knickerbocker team. And he wasn't.

Bruins Fed Up With Remarks About Defense

By DAVE O'HARA
associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins are proud of their high-scoring attack, and getting a little bit fed up with uncomplimentary remarks about their defensive play.

"Sure, offense is our bread and butter, but we can play a lot of defense when we have to," Boston Coach Tom Johnson said Sunday after the Bruins overwhelmed the St. Louis Blues 6-0 in a nationally televised game, interrupted by the moon space shot.

The Bruins moved six points in front of the New York Rangers, while still holding a game in hand in the East Division race. In other action, Los Angeles tied New York 2-2, Minnesota defeated California 7-1, Buffalo whipped Vancouver 6-1, Philadelphia downed Detroit 3-1, and Chicago edged Montreal 4-1.

"We scored six goals, but I was more impressed by our play on defense," Johnson said. "We were a lot tighter and showed that we can play defensively as well as anyone. In fact, we play better hockey when we play defense. That only helps to make more scoring chances."

Veteran Eddie Johnston earned his second shutout of the season, kicking out 23 shots, as the Bruins dominated the Blues and fashioned their 17th straight home victory, just five under the NHL record set by Boston's 1929-30 team.

Center Phil Esposito scored his 45th goal and added two assists in boosting his league-scoring lead to 96 points in just 49 games. Esposito, who set the record of 126 points two years ago, is being chased by defenseman Bobby Orr, a talented teammate with 82 points.

Orr, hockey's Mr. Everything last season when he topped the league with 120 points, scored his 21st and 22nd goals and picked up his 60th assist.

Other Boston scorers were Wayne Cashman, rookie Reggie Leach and Derek Sanderson.

While the Bruins were manhandling the Blues, their closest challengers in the NHL's East Division, the Rangers, were settling for a 2-2 deadlock with Los Angeles, although they outshot the Kings 38-22.

Juha Widing's goal midway through the final period forged the tie and goalie Denis DeJordy checked the Rangers with some superb netminding. Mike Byers scored the Kings' first goal while Rod Gilbert and Pete Stemkowski batted home rebounds for the Rangers.

The Kings are unbeaten in six games while the Rangers have won only once in their last eight starts and trail the Bruins by six points.

The Black Hawks opened a 17-point bulge over St. Louis in the West Division as Dennis Hull scored twice and Jim Pappin and Eric Nesterenko once each against the Canadiens.

Newly acquired Gord Labossiere scored a three-goal hat trick in his home debut with Minnesota and picked up an assist, as well, as the North Stars walloped California and remained a point behind fourth-place Philadelphia in the West.

Labossiere was dealt from Los Angeles to Minnesota last week.

Liquori Runs Fastest Indoor Time

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Marty Liquori raced to the swiftest time of the indoor season in the mile, Kerry Pearce came up with a pair of rugged two-mile victories but the shortest but most satisfying triumph went to that miracle man of the track circuit, Dr. Delano Meriwether.

Liquori, Villanova's Olympian, opened the weekend with a 4:00.6 mile victory Friday night at the 64th Wanamaker-Millrose Games in New York but the near-capacity crowd was disappointed that the magic 4-minute mark didn't fall.

"I'm not worried about time," said Liquori. "Just winning."

It was his 11th straight success in New York's Madison Square Garden. Liquori, bogged down with a slow 3:05.5 three-quarters, pulled out all stops in the final 440 yards, going 55.1 to just miss the magic figure, one that has never been broken in the history of the Millrose.

Pearce of Texas-El Paso, came up with the meet's outstanding performer award, capturing the two-mile run in Millrose record time of 8:36.4, bettering by .8 of a second the record of George Young.

The young Aussie, co-world record holder at that distance, came back in Boston Saturday night, winning in 8:38.2. Both times he beat ex-Yale ace Frank Shorter.

And in Boston, the New England folks saw for the first time the incredible speed of the good doctor Meriwether, who took up track less than a year ago at the advanced age of 27.

Meriwether, who sports yellow swim trunks, a white hospital shirt and matching yellow and white suspenders when he runs, thrilled the 9,444 fans with a come-from-behind triumph in the 50-yard dash, nipping U.S. Army Capt. Mel Pender at the tape in 5.3, tying the meet record.

Meriwether, a hematologist at the Baltimore Cancer Research Center, was awarded the Games' top performer award for his victory, his second in five indoor meets. He has finished second twice and fifth once.

The doctor, who runs without a coach, is a noted poor starter, due to his lack of training. "I'm working on it but it's still terrible."

Terrible or not, he has impressed athletes and fans alike on the indoor circuit and draws these raves: "Unbelievable," says Tom Von Ruden, U.S. 1500-meter Olympian.

"I'm sorry I'm not running anymore," says John Carlos, another Olympian and sprints record-holder. "I think he's the only one that could challenge me."

Other winners at the Millrose games were Marcus Walker of Colorado, who upset four-time Millrose champ Willie Davenport in the 60-yard high hurdles and Jim Green of Kentucky, an eyelash winner over Dr. Meriwether in the 60-yard dash.

Olympic 400-meter champion Lee Evans also won, taking the 600-yard run while Byron Dyce, formerly of NYU, was an upset winner in the 1,000 in 2:07.7.

Davenport got back on the winning trail in Boston, running his streak to nine in a row there, taking the 45-yard high hurdles in 5.6 seconds while Chuck LaBenz of the Pacific Coast Club, captured the mile in 4:09.2.

At the Oregon indoor meet in Portland, Steve Prefontaine, Oregon sophomore, turned in the season's fastest two-mile, winning in 8:31.9 and was named the meet's outstanding performer.

At Pocatello, Idaho, in the Bannion Indoor meet, Lee Egans equaled his world mark for 500 yards with a 54.4 clocking while John Mason of the Pacific Track Club won three races, the mile in 4:03.1, the mile steeplechase in 4:31.5 and the 1,000 yards, 2:12.0. Cliff Branch of Colorado, doubled, taking the 100 yard dash in 9.5 and the 300 yards in 30.2.

And in a meet in Tokyo, Swedish pole vaulter Kjell Isaksson was victorious with a vault of 17 feet 2 3/4 inches.

Rodriguez Is Winner in a Close One

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Pedro Rodriguez is a wiry little man, toughened by 17 of his 31 years at the wheel of a fast racing car. He no longer enjoys the emotional bath that comes with victory.

Such was the case Sunday after he and England's Jackie Oliver paired to drive a German Porsche to the closest victory ever in the Daytona 24-hour race.

Rodriguez had done it before — in 1970 when he teamed with Finland's Lee Kinnunen in another Porsche. The only smile he flashed after Sunday's triumph, his fourth at Daytona, was when he said he finds it easier to communicate with Oliver than with Kinnunen, who speaks no English.

Yet he and Oliver had performed a near miracle in winning this latest edition of the longest and most demanding race in the Western world. And he should have been floating on cloud nine, as Oliver was.

"They get harder every year," said Mexico City's No. 1 citizen. "But I'm not at all surprised that we won. That's what we came here to do."

Rodriguez flashed past a Ferrari driven by Ronnie Bucknum for Porsche's second straight 24-hour victory here. It put the German factory in command again in the 1971 drive for the world championship of makes—a circuit it dominated last year by winning all but one of the 10 events.

Rodriguez and Oliver, dividing the driving chores about equally, had built up a lead of 213 miles at one point in the race. But trouble struck with about three hours left when the car's transmission failed as Oliver was motoring around with not a care in the world.

Two Ferraris—the one driven alternately by Bucknum and Tony Adamowicz of Wilton, Conn., and another under command of two-time U.S. road racing champion Mark Donohue and David Gobbs of England—had survived the long night but were out of it as long as the Porsche held together.

Oliver brought the powder-blue car into the pit and he and Rodriguez spent an agonizing 93 minutes watching their lead wiped out as crewmen feverishly made repairs.

Bucknum gained the lead 70 minutes from the end and Donohue pulled into striking distance before crew chief John Wyr could get the Porsche rolling again. Rodriguez bolted back to the course a half mile behind Bucknum, whose Ferrari was spitting fire and having trouble getting through the turns.

The Mexican hotshot needed less than two laps around the 3.81-mile layout to catch Bucknum and he never was in serious trouble again.

Donohue and Hobbs drove brilliantly to a third-place finish despite more than an hour in the pits at one point to repair body damage suffered in a wreck.

Fourth place went to a seven-liter Corvette driven by Tony DeLorenzo, Don Yenke and Jack Mahler. Fifth was a three-liter Ferrari manned by Luigi Chinetti Jr. of Greenwich, Conn., and young Nestor Garcia

Three other potent Porsches were eliminated in wrecks. One, driven by Vic Elford of England, was involved in the smashup that almost put Donohue out. Congressmen Accused of Wanting Control

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Charles Bernard of Earle, state chairman of the Republican party, said Saturday the reason some congressmen oppose President Nixon's revenue sharing plan is because they feel they will lose control over how the federal money is being spent.

Bernard urged Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., to re-evaluate his stand against the plan. Mills, who is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee has said the committee will hold a series of hearings for the purpose of killing Nixon's plan.

The $43 million Arkansas would receive under the revenue sharing plan would eliminate, for now, the need for additional taxes in Arkansas, Bernard said.

Bernard also said during a news conference that the party's executive committee had voted to make public the expenditures of all candidates in future GOP primary elections.

By law, candidates must report their expenditures to their party secretaries, but the parties decide if they will make them public. During this last campaign, the Democrats revealed expenses, while the Republicans declined to make the primary expenses public.

Israel Forces Attack Two Villages

By HAL MCCLURE
Associated Press Writer
TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli raiding parties attacked two villages in south Lebanon during the night, and informed sources said they destroyed a Palestinian guerrilla regional headquarters.

A spokesman for the Israeli military command said an Israeli soldier was killed and three wounded. A number of Arabs also were casualties, he said.

The sources said heavy guerrilla resistance at the headquarters caused all the Israeli casualties. This was at Al-Kyam, four miles north of the frontier.

Guerrilla sources in Beirut claimed that 15 Israelis were killed or wounded. These sources said the guerrillas in Al-Kyam were already on a "maximum alert," and the Israeli raiders "virtually walked into an ambush." The guerrillas suffered no casualties, the sources said.

The Israeli Command said the other target was the village of Kafer Kela, just west of the Upper Galilee town of Metulla, and sources in Israel said two houses used as guerrilla recruiting centers were destroyed there.

The sources said there was little resistance there and that the Israelis moved an Arab family out before destroying one house.

Metulla has been the target of several guerrilla attacks recently, the latest Friday night. The military spokesman said 10 Israeli settlements have been attacked from Lebanon since Jan. 10.

Yasir Arafat, leader of Al Fatah guerrilla organization and titular head of the Palestine Liberation Organization of all guerrilla groups, reportedly told Premier Saeb Salam four weeks ago that the raids from Lebanese territory would cease.

One Killed, Damage Heavy in Riots

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One person was shot to death, more than 25 were injured and 70 businesses were damaged or burned when violence exploded after a weekend demonstration against the police in a mainly Mexican-American district.

It was the third major outbreak of violence in six months in East Los Angeles, home to more than 600,000 Mexican-Americans. A sheriff's spokesman estimated property damage at $200,000.

Twice, officers fired shotguns as more than 1,500 mainly young persons rampaged Nov. 13, and at once began talks at the Kremlin with Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev, Premier Alexei Kosygin and President Nikolai Podgorny.

The Occupational Home Economics classes and their instructor, Mrs. Carole B. Lester toured Meyer's Bakery recently. L. C. Haemoa met the group and gave them a first hand look at how the many varieties of rolls, breads, and English muffins are made, packaged and

Gambrell Is Likely to Get Russell's Post

By RAY BELL
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Gov. Jimmy Carter names a successor to the late Sen. Richard B. Russell today and sources indicated his choice was David Gambrell, 40, an Atlanta attorney and chairman of the state Democratic party.

Carter would neither confirm nor deny the report. He said only that he was "confident that the man I choose will serve the people of Georgia."

Gambrell said any comment on the appointment would have to come from Carter.

The speculation centering on Gambrell, who has been considered among the front runners for the post since Russell's death Jan. 21, was intensified when it was learned that he met Sunday with the governor.

Until that time, Carter's choice generally had been viewed as a tossup between Gambrell and another Atlanta attorney, Charles Kirbo, 52, the governor's chief of staff.

At least a dozen others had been mentioned as contenders. The appointment is to fill the unexpired portion of Russell's term. The Georgian, dean and president pro tem of the Senate, through the four-square-mile area. Rioters threw rocks and bricks at officers, attacked them with boards, and threw firebombs into businesses. Officers used tear gas and fought hand-to-hand. Firemen answering alarms were stoned.

At least 68 persons were arrested, mostly for investigation for assault.

Eleven of the injured were sheriff's deputies. Many of the injured civilians were hospitalized for shotgun wounds.

The outbursts Sunday began after 5,000 persons chanted anti-police slogans such as "Death to the pigs" at a park rally. Part of the crowd marched to a nearby sheriff's station and threw rocks at the building and patrol cars.

The crowd moved on to the district's business section and surrounded a patrol car. Officers said the car's occupants fled on foot, and deputies arriving at the scene fired at demonstrators with shotguns when they charged the officers.

Similar rallies called to protest alleged police mistreatment in Mexican-American areas ended in violence last August, when three persons were killed, and September.

Demonstrators said looting occurred because the storekeepers are "ratones" and "ladrones"—Spanish for rats and rogues—charging high prices for cheaply made goods.

A sheriff's spokesman said the dead man's neck and throat were ripped out by a shotgun blast. He was identified only as a Mexican-American between 20 and 25 years old.

A curfew to dawn was ordered at about 8 p.m. for the disturbed area.

Rockefeller Asks Tax Hike of $1.1 Billion

By CHARLES DUMAS
Associated Press Writer
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller blamed the federal government for New York's fiscal problems today as he requested a record round of tax increases totaling $1.1 billion to help finance a proposed state budget of $8.45 billion.

The Republican governor told the GOP-controlled legislature that he had no choice except to recommend higher taxes, because Washington apparently was not going to come through on time with the federal revenue-sharing program.

Required by state law to present a balanced budget, Rockefeller said the state's present revenue system could not come even close to absorbing the $1.53 billion "obligatory" spending increase he faced.

Accordingly, he recommended:

—A 10 per cent surcharge on the state's income tax, plus higher brackets for upper-income taxpayers and elimination of cash credits that all taxpayers now are allowed to deduct.

—A one percentage point increase in the state's three per cent sales tax. That would raise the maximum rate in the state to seven per cent, because many communities also levy local sales taxes of up to three per cent.

—Increases of one cent on the gasoline tax, now seven cents a gallon; three cents on cigarettes, now 12 cents a package; 10 cents a fifth on liquor, now 45 cents. Fees for motor-vehicle registrations would be raised an average of 50 per cent.

—A boost of about 30 per cent in taxes on the earnings of corporations, utilities and banks.

Rockefeller said New York had run into financial trouble because it was not getting enough help from Washington, and he warned that "we could witness this year—a disastrous deterioration of public services" unless the federal government responds.

At the same time, he indicated that part of the tax package might be withdrawn if Washington did produce. He described his fiscal plan as "a stopgap, crisis budget subject to revision when Congress enacts a meaningful federal aid plan through revenue sharing."

The governor's tax-and-spending plan now will be subjected to critical scrutiny, and probable revision, by the legislature. The objective will be to reach an agreement by the April 1 start of the state's fiscal year.

International Conference of Cities Planned

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is planning an international "Conference on Cities" next spring, but intends to keep America's racial problems in the background.

The conference, which opens May 25 in Indianapolis, is expected to attract some of the world's leading experts on urban problems. Its focus will be kept firmly fixed on the difficulties common to the 15 NATO countries, an administration spokesman said.

NATO is collaborating in planning the conference, which developed out of its Committee on the Challenges of Modern Society.

"We are trying to deal with problems that have a high level of commonality," said the administration aide, who asked not to be identified. "With the exception of Great Britain, there's not a European country with a severe racial problem." President Nixon is considered a likely speaker at the four-day conference. West German Chancellor Willy Brandt, former mayor of West Berlin, may also attend.

The guest list is still not complete but among those likely to receive invitations are the renowned Greek architect and planner, Constantinos Doxiadis, economist Barbara Ward and designer-builder Richard Buckminster Fuller.

Five hundred delegates are expected, half of them from Europe. Among the U.S. delegates will be mayors from cities over 100,000 in population and several governors.

The agenda, which is still being shaped, now includes transportation, housing, fiscal affairs, the environment, public services and planning and development.

Wants More Teachers From Minority

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Rev. J. F. Cooley of North Little Rock said Sunday night that it would be "most unfortunate" if the Arkansas Senate did not confirm the appointment of Elijah Coleman of Pine Bluff to the Arkansas State University Board of Trustees.

Coleman, a Negro who is also executive director of the Arkansas Council on Human Relations, was appointed to the board by former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller but has not been confirmed by the Senate. The appointment is expected to come up this week.

A group of East Arkansas legislators met with Gov. Dale Bumpers last week and reportedly asked the governor to go along with possible Senate rejection of Coleman's appointment.

One legislator said Coleman was not wanted on the board because he was a "controversial figure."

Cooley said he hoped Bumpers "would not yield to the tactics of the East Arkansas legislators." He said he had faith in the Bumpers administration and hoped the governor would not be influenced by "segregationists and racists."

Several legislators said last week they thought Bumpers would appoint another Negro to the ASU board if Coleman is not confirmed.

State Rep. J. B. Smith of Marianna said Sunday night that if Coleman is rejected, Lacy Kennedy, a well-known East Arkansas funeral home operator would be named to the post. Kennedy is a Negro.

Kennedy, who operates fuheral homes in Marianna, Forrest City and Wynne, said Sunday night he had heard a rumor that he was in line for the board post if Coleman is rejected, but has not been contacted by the Bumpers administration.

Coleman said Sunday that a member of the legislature had promised him a position on another state board if he would resign from the ASU post. He would not reveal the legislator's name, but did say that one of the positions offered was on the Arkansas AM&N Board of Trustees. Coleman said he turned down the offer.

"That would be the same old thing of appointing black people to watch over black people," Coleman said.

Cooley said that only black people who were approved by a "certain group" of whites were appointed to positions of responsibility in government. "It's about time some people were appointed that meant something to black people," Cooley said.

Miss Chinatown USA Is Named

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A university of Minnesota freshman, Linda Shen, is Miss Chinatown USA for 1971.

The 5-foot-5 Formosa-born 18-year-old speaks flawless English and Mandarin, and is studying to be an interior decorator. She won out early Sunday over 17 other Chinese-American girls in the beauty contest that was part of Chinese new year celebrations welcoming the Year of the Boar.

Dr. and Mrs. William Shen of Minneapolis, Miss Shen's parents, moved to Formosa when the Communists took over the mainland, and brought her to the United States six years ago.

Controversy to Demonstrate Group Power

By EDMOND LeBRETON and JOHN BECKLER

Associated Press Writers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The growing controversy over federal revenue sharing is likely to demonstrate, more clearly than any other recent issue, the extent to which Congress' power is the power of its committees—and of the chairmen.

President Nixon's proposal to steer $5 billion in federal funds to the states, without strings, already has brought him to an eye-to-eye confrontation with one of the strongest, Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

And the companion proposal for $11 billion in only generally restricted block grants was received with chilly skepticism by Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., whose House Appropriations Committee has the major say on spending.

Except under extraordinary circumstances, no legislation gets to the floor of either chamber until it has been worked over and approved by a committee.

The House committees likely to scrutinize portions of the Nixon plan—when he spells out the details and sends up legislation Ways and Means; Appropriations; Banking, which handles housing legislation; Education and Labor; Commerce; Judiciary, and Agriculture.

The chairmen of all these are products of the seniority system. Accordingly, all are Democrats with long service, and all but one are from the South. But they vary considerably in their methods and the degree of influence they exert on their committees.

All enjoy much built-in leverage, notably on the scheduling of legislative hearings. Mills, for example, already has said there will be no revenue-sharing hearings until late this year.

The Arkansas tax expert is an acknowledged master of getting legislation passed—and blocking legislation he doesn't like.

He says frankly he will not bring out a bill he knows the House will not pass. He has almost never been proved wrong in part because he does not hesitate to change his own position, as he did in the case of medicare, when he detects an overwhelming trend in the House.

Mills takes care of his colleagues, Republican as well as Democratic, on secondary bills in which they have an interest. Such consideration and the fact most Ways and Means members are generally conservative, as he is, helps him keep a handy working majority.

Like Mills, Mahon presides over a committee composed mostly of fiscal conservatives, as he is. Appropriations, with 55 members, is the biggest committee in Congress. It does most of its work through subcommittees, whose chairmen are powers in their own right—but Mahon names them.

He works harmoniously with the ranking Republican, Frank T. Bow of Ohio. When time comes to defend their product on the floor, committeemen from both sides of the aisle generally unite. The House seldom makes major changes in an appropriation bill, despite frequent efforts by liberals to boost the figures for social programs and by conservatives to cut them.

In sharp contrast to these committees, Banking is split up the middle, and not entirely on party lines. Republicans and Southern Democrats often get together, as they do on the House floor, and different issues produce different divisions.

Chairman Wright Patman of Texas, out of the old grassroots Populist tradition, slowly climbed the seniority ladder to reach the top post at age 69 and then gave full rein to his low-interest, anti-big-bank principles.

Committee members, objecting among other things to what they said were investigations launched without prior consultation, curbed his powers somewhat. But the committee from time to time ties itself up in wrangles from which Patman is likely to emerge on the losing side. And sometimes he wins in committee only to lose on the floor.

Patman has expressed grave doubts about Nixon's proposals, especially in the housing field, saying they may well turn out to be "robbing Peter to pay Paul."

The Education and Labor Committee is like no other. Its Democratic majority seized control from the former chairman, Adam Clayton Powell, shortly before Powell's troubles led to his exclusion from the 90th Congress. It has kept the upper hand over the present chairman, Carl D. Perkins, a mild-mannered Kentuckian.

Perkins rarely takes a position until he is sure it is supported by a majority of the committee, but he has said of the Nixon proposals, "We're not about to let these fine programs, which we've worked so hard to develop and which have such strong support throughout the country, be thrown into a state grab-bag."

The Democrats, mostly liberals, make almost no effort to compromise their differences with Republicans on the committee. Accordingly most legislation it produces is embroiled in controversy and is frequently altered by amendments adopted on the floor.

The Judiciary Committee, all of whose members are lawyers, divides more on philosophical than partisan lines, but is predominantly liberal.

The chairman, Emanuel Celler, of New York, 82 and dean of the House, functions more like a chief justice than a chairman, seeking to reconcile conflicting views and obtain a firm committee position.

He receives notable support from the ranking Republican, William H. McCulloch of Ohio. The independent-minded McCulloch has often bucked the Nixon administration to help Celler get needed Republican votes on civil rights legislation.

Until more details of Nixon's plans are known, it is uncertain how large a role, if any, the Commerce and Agriculture committees will play.

Commerce, headed by Harley O. Staggers of West Virginia, has a record of fairly smooth operation. Staggers and William L. Springer of Illinois, the ranking Republican, generally work well together.

The Agriculture Committee is dominated by deeply conservative, farm-oriented members on both sides. When it disagrees, it is usually over the interest of one segment of agriculture against another, as in farm aid programs. Chairman W. R. Poage of Texas and ranking Republican Page Belcher of Oklahoma basically think alike and get along well together.

PLAYING GAMES—While John Lennon destroys the wholesome Beatle image in the pages of a current edition of Rolling Stone by saying, among other things, that their tours in the states in the early '60s involved all kinds of wildness in various hotel suites, the ex-musical director of the ex-Beatles recounts another side of the coin. In New York recently to attend a concert by Sea Train, his latest group, George Martin told Youth Beat of a ski trip to St. Moritz. "Everyone in the hotel lobby was wondering what orgies were going on upstairs," says George, "while all the time we were simply playing Monopoly." Memo to John: Go directly to jail, do not pass Go, do not collect $200.

DEALER IN REAL ESTATE that's not for real is George Harrison, one of the Beatles who rode high on the record lists when this photo was taken in 1964.

THE GAME OF THE NAME—O.K., all you experts in rock trivia, here's a challenge. One of the biggest stars on the rock scene these days uses a phony name (which most folks don't do these days). His real name is Reginald Dwight. Can you tell us who is doing the masquerading? Send those cards and letters to us, care of your local paper. The first dozen or so correct answers that we get will be rewarded with something or other, which we'll think up during the next few days. Here's a piece of free advice—it isn't Joe Cocker.

NEWS NOTES—NBC's magazine news show, First Tuesday, is putting together a segment on "Pearl," the final Janis Joplin album... The movie made during Joe Cocker's tour with his Mad Dogs and Englishmen is previewing in Hollywood. The rest of the world will see it soon... The Moody Blues are working on a new album to be released this spring when they tour the United States again... Mrs. Steve Madaio (he's the trumpet blower for Paul Butterfield's fine group) just presented Steve with a baby girl, Dani.

BOOK NOOK—If you dig acting and/or actors and their roles and stuff like that, pick up on "Broadway," a new book by Brooks Atkinson, who was drama critic for the New York Times for 30 years. Gives a lot of insight into some of the great plays and actors of all time. If you're thinking about trying out on the drama club, it's a must.

BREAKING EGGS—Should everyone go to college? Was a time when most people thought so, but a lot of people are beginning to wonder. Seems like vocational schools may be the answer for kids who can't go the college route and, according to Irving Goldstein, president of Charron-Williams Systems, there are some good ones around to choose from if you're interested in being a secretary, junior accountant, medical assistant, technician, data processor or something like that. We can fill you in if you're interested in more details.
